

HOTEL CERVOSA

Serfaus Gourmet & Spa Resort

* ONLY IN OPERATION
DURING THE SUMMER

Dear guests and friends of fine wine!

I, the wine list, would like to thank you for having me in your hands and hope that I can make you happy and cheerful every day during your stay here at the Cervosa. Let me be your companion for the culinary dishes, which are lovingly prepared by our kitchen brigade under the direction of Mr Viktor Wallnöfer.

Allow me to introduce myself briefly, since you already have me in your hands anyway:

I am over 60 years young, have grown steadily in terms of quality, am racy, interesting, unstoppable and have a noble and elegant character with international flair, am sociable at all times and bring cheerfulness and atmosphere wherever I am seen and enjoyed. By the way, I now have over 400 wines from all over the world on offer.

Our service team will be happy to provide you with further information and expert advice.

Your host & wine lovers
Hugo Westreicher

Stefanie Westreicher
Sommelière Austria

I wish you a great wine and gourmet experience at the Cervosa.

White wine from Austria

GRÜNER VELTLINER

Grüner Veltliner is the most important autochthonous grape variety in Austria and is particularly widespread in Lower Austria and Vienna. Recently, the variety has also been increasingly found in other countries. For example, in the immediately neighbouring regions of the Czech Republic, Slovakia and Hungary. Veltliner can also produce fine results in Germany or the South Tyrolean Eisack Valley.

The range of wine styles that are possible with this grape variety is remarkable: light, uncomplicated and 'quaffable' at the beginning of the flavour spectrum, it can also produce a powerful, multi-layered wine with great ageing potential, which – like Riesling – brings the terroir perfectly into the bottle. A fruity, spicy note is characteristic of each of these expressions, the much-sung about 'Pfefferl', a flavour reminiscent of freshly ground black pepper.

ROTER VELTLINER

For years barely recognised, Roter Veltliner is developing into a trendy niche product with cult potential. The old Austrian grape variety occupies a special position in the Veltliner family due to its offspring – Neuburger, Zierfandler and Rotgipfler. Roter Veltliner is mainly found in Wagram, but can also be found in Krems and Kamptal as well as occasionally in Weinviertel and Vienna.

Due to strict yield reduction, the vines produce unique wines that are rather restrained on the nose but have enormous potential for development: Strong alcohol content and high extract can predominate. Typical varietal characteristics include light sultana and honey flavours, a full body and – in harmonious examples – a vital acid structure.

RIESLING

Riesling is considered the noblest white wine grape variety. Its fine aromatic character comes into its own without any great technical effort in the cellar, with vinification in steel tanks or large wooden barrels. The wines are highly elegant with excellent ageing potential. It is completely unsuitable for ageing in barriques, as the oak flavour would completely mask the fruitiness. What is also impressive about this grape variety is its ability to transfer the characteristics of the respective soil into the bottle.

Young Riesling wines show charming fruitiness and flavour, which can develop into great, complex wines as they mature. These wines are dominated by stone fruit flavours of peach, apricot and exotic fruits.

WEISSBURGUNDER

Also known as PINOT BLANC or PINOT BIANCO.

This internationally widespread variety is characterised by an elegant, often restrained bouquet and a ripe acidity structure. Classically, Pinot Blanc is rather calm in its youth, but full-bodied, with a delicate floral and slightly vegetal flavour. The delicate aroma is reminiscent of apples or baked apples. After longer storage, it usually develops a nutty, almondy flavour. Due to its subtle flavour, it is often used in white cuvée wines. It develops good potential when vinified and matured in barriques with malolactic fermentation. After appropriate ageing, it then reveals itself in terms of flavour with plenty of extract and substance, elegant fruit sweetness and well-balanced power.

CHARDONNAY

Depending on the ripeness, thin, grassy and, on the other hand, very full-bodied wines are produced. The wine is matured in two styles – the classic style in steel tanks with emphasised fruit and stimulating acidity and, more commonly used internationally, with malolactic fermentation and ageing in barriques. The most important characteristic of a great Chardonnay is its complexity, which is only achieved in special locations with chalky soils. The variety is widespread worldwide and produces wines that are among the most expensive in the world.

GRAUBURGUNDER

Also known as PINOT GRIS, RULÄNDER or PINOT GRIGIO. Pinot Gris produces mild quality and Predicate wines with a delicate, unobtrusive varietal bouquet of great consistency. Whether vinified as a single variety or in cuvées – preferably with related Burgundy varieties – it shows strength and fullness. When harvested very early, the wines are light and lively. The grapes tend to produce a lot of sugar and are susceptible to botrytis. The variety then often has a strong flavour with caramel spice and honey notes. At higher ripeness, it tends to be golden yellow with reddish reflections, which comes from the greyish-red berry colour.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

The country of origin of Sauvignon is France. In the Loire, Sancerre and Pouilly Fumé are vinified as single varieties. In Bordeaux, it lends freshness and vigour as a blending partner for Sémillon. However, this globally widespread variety can also achieve exceptional results in other regions. For example, the top plants from South Tyrol, Styria and faraway New Zealand are among the best varieties in the world. Sauvignon Blanc has a characteristic bouquet, which can be obtrusively unripe and grassy in wines made from grapes that are not fully ripe – ripe grapes reveal a variety of flavours of blackcurrants, gooseberries and tropical fruits. Depending on the degree of ripeness, the wines develop from subtle to very complex, which, in combination with barrique ageing and biological acid reduction, have great potential for development.

VIOGNIER

Viognier is one of the most interesting white wine varieties of all. Triggered by the renaissance of Rhône wines, it is once again attracting greater attention. It is native to the upper reaches of the Rhône, presumably in Condrieu or Ampuis, where it was first mentioned in a document. Viognier has migrated from the Rhône to the south of France, where the wines, however, do not achieve the finesse and complexity of the original region. In recent years, the variety has become a world traveller. Plantations, some of which produce remarkable wines, can be found in California, Oregon, Australia and New Zealand, but also in other parts of Europe and even in Austria.

GEMISCHTER SATZ

The GEMISCHTE SATZ is an Austrian speciality in which several grape varieties from one vineyard are harvested and processed together. The result is a very complex wine that is characterised by freshness and liveliness as well as maturity and depth.

The international Slow Food Foundation has included the Wiener Gemischter Satz in the 'Ark of Taste' and honoured it as a so-called 'Presidio' product. This honour, which has only been awarded to around 300 foods worldwide, is intended to protect high quality, traditionally produced foods from being endangered by industrial agriculture and the food industry and to preserve them for future generations.

Red Wine from Austria

ZWEIGELT

(Blauer) Zweigelt is an original Austrian classic and comes from the cross between Sankt Laurent and Blaufränkisch. As the most widespread red wine variety in Austria, its spectrum ranges from wines that can be drunk young and matured without wood to powerful growths from the barrique. The variety is also often used as a partner for cuvées. Great wines are vinified in Carnuntum and on Lake Neusiedl in particular. Zweigelt produces light violet-reddish wines with soft tannins. When very ripe, it produces full-bodied and long-lasting wines with sour cherry flavours. Apart from small areas in South Tyrol, Germany, England, the USA and Canada, it is rarely found outside Austria.

BLAUFRÄNKISCH

Also known as LEMBERGER. Finds ideal conditions in the Pannonian region, especially in the Austrian wine growing region of Burgenland, and can produce high class, complex wines. Blaufränkisch thrives best in warm, south facing, wind protected locations. The typical bouquet of this late ripening grape variety is characterised by deep wild berry or cherry fruit and has a characteristic acidity. Blaufränkisch can produce great wines with a dense structure and distinctive tannins, which are often impetuous when young, but develop velvety facets when sufficiently ripe. Strong wines have sufficient potential for longer ageing. Blaufränkisch does very well when matured in barriques and impresses both as a single variety and in cuvées in combination with local and international varieties.

ST. LAURENT

The aroma is already very memorable, with associations of sour cherries and plums. On the palate, it resembles a dark fruity version of Pinot Noir, to which it is also related. After longer maturation and ageing, classic Pinot notes emerge, with cooked berries and fine spice. Extract sweetness, bitter chocolate and velvety tannins emphasise the harmonious style, which can also be used in a variety of culinary ways. The renaissance of this grape variety, which has been labelled 'difficult' in recent years and extends from Burgenland to northern Lower Austria and Styria, is very pleasing. The Thermenregion has always been the home of this powerful, deeply fruity red wine.

PINOT NOIR

Also known as BLAUBURGUNDER, SPÄTBURGUNDER or PINOT NERO. Pinot Noir produces very high quality wines in an ideal location, with high ripeness and skilful vinification. It is also a very sensitive variety and makes high demands both in the vineyard and in the cellar. Its light colour is characteristic. The typical aroma is rather subtle with a spectrum of flavours ranging from strawberry or raspberry to sour cherries and prunes, depending on the terroir and ageing, and is often accompanied by a fine almond-marzipan note. The palate is independent, elegant and with fine acidity, the variety tends to have little tannin. Always elegant and lively, sometimes demanding. Pinot Noir often appears slender, which should not be underestimated, especially in terms of storage capacity. The classics of the variety come from Burgundy, but there is also Pinot Noir expertise in Germany, Oregon and New Zealand. Pinot Noir also achieves some great results in other cool wine regions such as Austria or South Tyrol.

MERLOT

Merlot is the most common grape variety in France and produces exceptional wines in the Bordeaux region. Its adaptability to climate and soil conditions, combined with its earlier ripening, contribute to the success of this small and loose berried grape variety, which has spread across the globe and produces exceptional results in Italy in particular.

Smoother than Cabernet Sauvignon, with less tannin and acidity, it is often used as a cuvée partner, but is also very often vinified as a single variety. Merlot thrives above all in warm locations on deep, loamy soils and produces fruity, full bodied and full flavoured wines with southern charm and soft, harmonious tannins when ripe.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

When young, the wine is fruity, often rough and tannic with a strong bouquet. As it matures, a good Cabernet Sauvignon increasingly develops fine roasted flavours and shows notes of blackcurrant and liquorice. As a late-ripening variety, it needs warm sites so that the wines do not taste grassy or like green pepper. The strong tannins require longer ageing and the use of small wooden barrels is almost obligatory, complementing the varietal type. The classic, international Cabernet strongholds are still Bordeaux and many countries of the so-called New World, such as California and Chile, but also the entire Mediterranean region, as the great growths of the Tuscan Maremma well demonstrate.

SYRAH

Syrah is one of the finest red wine varieties in the world and is originally at home in the Rhône. Before the great age of Bordeaux wines, the majestic Hermitage or the elegant Côte Rôtie were the most sought after and expensive wines in the world. Towards the end of the last century, Syrah once again began a triumphal march through the wine world – especially the New World. The classic Australian representative of Shiraz – lush wild berry fruit, mild acidity, sweet spicy flavours and a soft, creamy texture – has become the epitome of the modern, uncomplicated red wine style. In Austria, the variety differs from its new world counterpart with more fruit elegance and more subtle flavours, showing beautiful berry fruit and a pleasant, yet distinctive tannin structure. Mostly deep, well muted colour, the more mature, the more neutral the aroma, in the classic case herbal spice with some eucalyptus, tobacco smoky spicy, sometimes also cedar wood and pod tones.

€ 23,00

btl. 1.5l

€ 85,00

btl. 3.0l

€ 165,00

Its dark brown colour is particularly striking. The flavour dominates with caramel notes and dried fruit. In the nose, a malt note is particularly in the foreground. On the palate, it is pleasantly sweet, slightly bitter and slightly alcoholic in the finish.

Duvel

Belgium

btl. 0.75l

€ 18,50

A slightly cloudy orange colour. Fruity flavours reminiscent of apples and pears. It has a pleasant acidity and light bitter notes.

Carolus

Belgium

btl. 0.75l

€ 20,70

It has a strong, dark brown colour with light reddish accents. On the palate again a slight sweetness emerges, followed by a long lasting finish.

Dulcis 12

Germany

btl. 0.66l

€ 10,50

Dulchis is exceptional, fruity, yeasty, mild, sweet and malty. From ripe fruit and malty sweetness with hints of sherry. Some honey sweetness, yeasty, fruity, slightly slightly acidic due to citrus flavours.

Augustus 8

Germany

btl. 0.66l

€ 10,50

A wheat doppelbock with fruity notes of ripe banana and a fine hint of caramel. caramel flavour.

Birra del Borgo Ducale

Italy

btl. 0.75l

€ 29,00

This strong beer was brewed in the Belgian style. Dried fruit and the flavour of roasted hazelnuts. The sweetish flavour notes are very long lasting with a strong body, with a strong body.

Rieder Edelbock

Austria

btl. 1.0l

€ 45,00

Brewed as a wheat beer bock with French yeast. After the bottle fermentation, a particularly fine perlage is created.

Kiesbye's Waldbier 2016

Austria

btl. 0.75l

€ 51,00

This forest beer has a typical juniper flavour. Sweet, resinous and marzipan notes occur. It has a red-golden colour and is slightly opal. The flavours are harmonious and sweet and pleasant to drink. (Recommendation for ladies)

Samichlaus

Austria

btl. 0.75

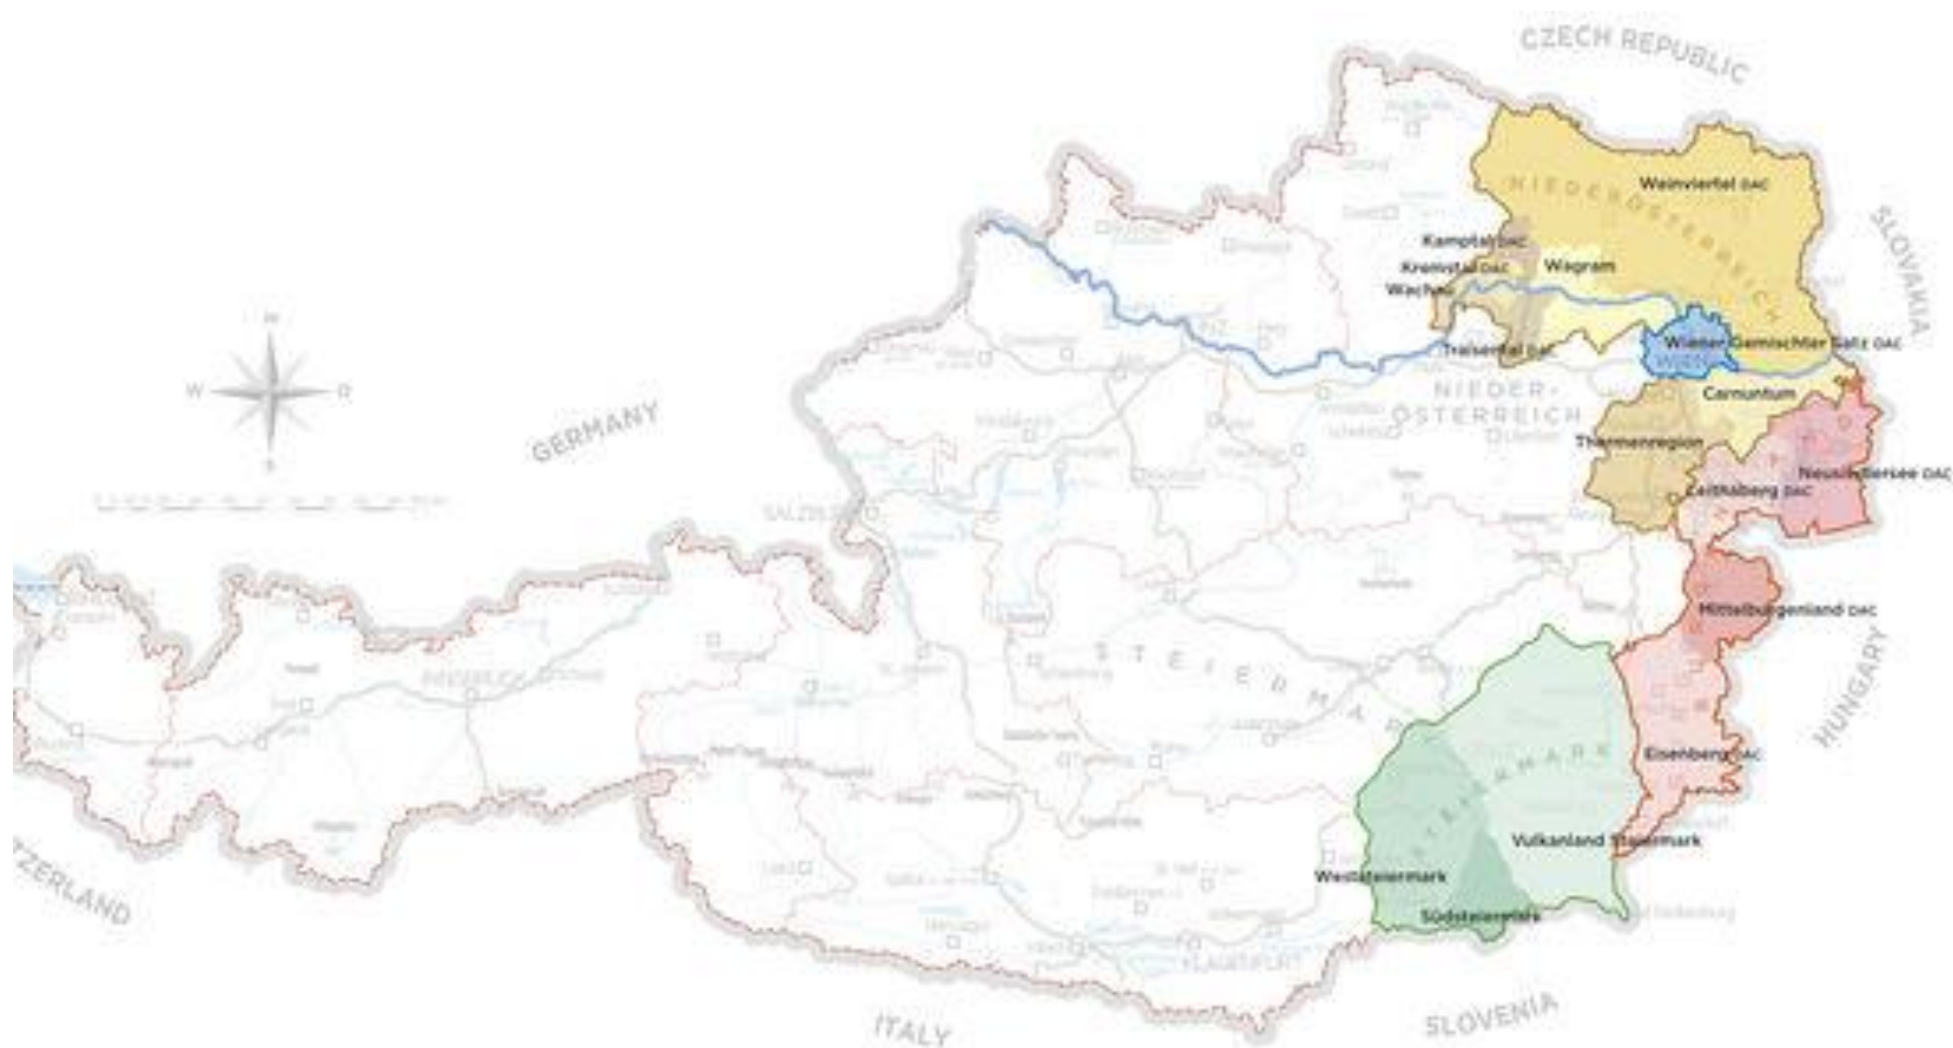

€ 37,00

Rose-nut brown colour, no foam. Sweetish malt flavour. Strongly alcoholic, almost liqueur-like liqueur-like aftertaste. Very sweet and fruity flavours of dates and prunes, but also sharp and spicy due to the strong alcohol component and the robust backbone provided by the generous hopping. results.

Austria as a wine country

AUSTRIA AS A WINE COUNTRY

Due to the more favourable climatic conditions, the Austrian wine-growing regions are mainly located in the east of the country in the federal states of Lower Austria, Burgenland, Styria and Vienna. However, wine is also grown on a small scale in all other federal states (Carinthia, Upper Austria, Salzburg, Tyrol and Vorarlberg).

In Austria, wine is grown on a total of 41,912 hectares. The federal states of Lower Austria (27,160 ha), Burgenland (11,901 ha), Styria (5,051 ha) and Vienna (580 ha) form their own generic wine-growing regions and combine 18 specific wine-growing regions. The Burgenland wine-growing region includes five other wine-growing regions (Carinthia, Upper Austria, Salzburg, Tyrol and Vorarlberg).
